Our Director hosts Common Purpose Leadership Course for students

Quality Context News

Our Director, Kate Krachai, recently hosted a leadership workshop. The event was for students from Sheffield Hallam University as part of the Common Purpose Front Runner course. The aim of the workshop was to educate the students on what it's like working in the pharmaceutical and healthcare industries. It was also about helping prepare them to be effective leaders as they start out on their career paths.

This is the third time Quality Context has been involved in the programme. We hope that our involvement will provide the students with new leadership skills, give them real world insights into how businesses and business leaders operate, and provide them with the opportunity to learn and ask questions.

We are always keen to support the local universities where possible. It was our pleasure speaking with the students about our company, our vision and values and how leadership works in our organisation. It was also interesting to hear their thoughts and aspirations as they look to the future.

Speaking about the workshop, Kate Krachai, said: "It was truly a pleasure to host such bright and conscientious students at Quality Context. We care deeply about patient safety and work with our clients to consistently deliver high-quality medicines and healthcare products. We are proud to share our values with those just starting out in their careers and we wish them all the best for the future".
